NEWS NOTES AND COMMENT

The time of candidate cigars is drawing to a close and several candidates are going to be defeated.

The correspondents for the Dispatch are doing good work in hauling for the news from their respective localities. All hail to the country correspondents.

Democratic newspapers are blowing the dust off their cuts of roosters the 7th of November approaches. Hooray for Hoover! Friends of successful candidates will say "I told you so months ago."

The copper wire being used by the overhead power and light service through here from Wheeling to Canton is about as thick as a broom handle. A shock from this wire is worse than a shock of corn.

Carrollton is about as well supplied with railroad service as is Canfield and Washingtonville by the Erie. Dan Jackson is not responsible for the lack.

Miss Rose Smith of near Washingtonville is employed in the decorating department of the Carrollton pottery. There is a coal famine in Carrollton notwithstanding the fact that the village is underlaid with five feet of coal.

Joseph C. Stiller, drum major of the 128th O. V. I., during the war of the rebellion, came across a bit of the tattered silk flag of his regiment last week, put carefully away in the old family bible, and prizes it highly. He is now past 75 years young and often mentions his old comrade in arms, John Henry Longbottom now located at Washingtonville.

General Jacob Sechler Coxey and Jacob, Jr., with Col. William Stokes as his press agent came here in two large touring cars on Friday, Oct. 20, and remained over Saturday. He delivered a 2-hour speech upon the public square to a large crowd of voters who stood shivering in the cold, while Coxey warmed with his subject and said he was an independent candidate for U. S. Senator.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society gave an entertainment in the moving picture show a couple of weeks ago, and on Friday night, Nov. 3, will present "Tom Thumb's Wedding" in the Presbyterian church, under the direction of Miss Schwartz of Cleveland. The proceeds go towards buying a paragon. On Halloween they served hot coffee doughnuts and switches in front of the Chronicle office.

Last week about a dozen marble markers were sent here by the War Department for the graves of deceased soldiers buried in our cemetery. The mausoleum is about completed and some bodies have already been placed in the crypts. Driveways are being made through the grounds.

I am glad to know that Delft Summerville is out of the Salem hospital, and am sorry to learn that Mother Youngblood was forced to leave her dwelling by fire, also sorry that the Gov. Cox paved road through Washingtonville has been so long delayed, but hope that Gov. Cox's reelection will help lay brick.

Postmaster Grinn knows of about two dozen Washingtonville boys who received Halloween post cards this week through the Carrollton postoffice, and I will be pleased to have word from them.

How does Squire Johnston, Aaron Broadbent and Bill Holt stand on the European war? Can they obey the president's advice to remain neutral? And how would the Luxeuels, the Tourdets, the Molles and the Mathies like to have an army of Dutch in wooden shoes tramp down their vineyards?

This is a good year for big apples at $1.50 a bushel and cabbage at 3 cents a pound; in fact all fruit is plentiful except plums. Potatoes are small and few in a hill, so that Ohio will depend upon Michigan for our supply of spuds. However, the young men will be happy with a Ford and a cigarette.

We had fine weather during October, and if farmers didn't get their full work completed it is no fault of the weather bureau.

Many Carroll county farmers are selling their land and moving to town to board their children who work in the factories. This would be a good opening for the industrious farmers in Green and Beaver townships. The Galvins, Lehmanns and Weavers would find an acceptable opening here, for farmers find a ready market for all they have to sell.

This is no good county for lawyers. The October term of court lasted only a few days. No criminal cases, and the civil cases might have been disposed of before a justice of the peace or in probate court. People are too busy working to attend other people's affairs, and the workmen's compensation law settles many cases without trial.

Some people here of the opinion that congress should prohibit the exportation of wheat and other necessities of life, and thereby keep prices down to normal. If closely pressed we Americans can live on sauerkraut, pork, corn pone and applebutter, but it would not look well to do so when crowned heads of Europe are faring on the best American products. Wassagen see mine Deutsche friends?

This year's Halloween program was the best ever pulled off in Carrollton. The street parade headed by lady horseback riders started at 7 o'clock p. m. The business men gave prizes to the best and second best Miss Columbia, Santa Claus, Charlie Father Time, Little Bo Peep, Preparedness, Martha Washington, George Washington, Witch, Highest Boy Scout, Indian Princess, Colonial costume, Everett True, Camp Ghost, Indian Group, Conquest, Clown, Uncle Sam, Indian Boy and Girl, Gold Dust Twins, Tam O'Shanter and many others. Public marriage on public square for prize of $25. Three bands in parade.

PETER M. HEROLD.

The dread of what people will say is the keynote of much that passes for repentance.

You can generally size a man up from his actions, unless he knows he is being watched.
